SCIENTIFIC AND USEFUL.

It is generally supposed that flies adhere to ceilings and perpendicular walls by virtue of some sucking property of the feet. In a communication to the Berlin Society of Natural History, Herr Derwitz presents some facts which seem to disprove the theory and make it appear probable that this power is due rather to a sticky matter which may be seen under the microscope to exude from a fly's feet when walking with its body downward.

Two microscopes, called the "Jumbo" and the "Midget," formed an interesting exhibit at a recent meeting of a London society. The former instrument, probably made about half a century ago, was 4 1/2 feet high, and weighed 125 pounds, while the "Midget," fully equipped for work, had a total height of only four inches, and weighed but a few ounces. Six such microscopes as the smaller one could be inclosed in the eye-piece of the larger.

The Government method of cleaning brass, which is in use at all of the United States arsenals, is claimed to be the best in the world. The plan is to make a mixture of one part common nitric acid and one-half part sulphuric acid in a stone jar, having also ready a pail of fresh water and a box of sawdust. The articles to be treated are dipped into the acid, then removed into the water, and finally rubbed with sawdust. This immediately changes them to a brilliant color. If the brass has become greasy, it is first dipped in a strong solution of potash and soda in warm water; this cuts the grease, so that the acid has free power to act.

Lady Jumbo, owned by Baroness Burdett Coutts-Bartlett, is said to be the smallest pony in the world. The little creature looks like a thoroughbred race-horse seen through the Artificial smile—Grinning at a hatchet.

A regular old soaker—The sponge "Is he dead?" was the astonished reply.
